Adventure Canada's itineraries are examples only and are always subject to change.

Expedition travel is an exciting way to explore the world's most remote and captivating destinations. At Adventure Canada, we recognize that itinerary changes are often an unavoidable aspect of such journeys, especially due to the unpredictable Arctic weather and ice conditions. With an adventurous spirit and an open mind, detours can lead to unforgettable moments and unique experiences. We encourage our guests to approach their journey with curiosity and adaptability, embracing the philosophy that "Man proposes, nature disposes."

We look forward to embarking on this unforgettable journey with you and discovering the unexpected highlights it will hold!
