Iceland to Greenland: In the Wake of the Vikings 2023

Adventure Canada is committed to sustainable travel and recognizes the importance of giving back to the communities and regions we visit. We believe that responsible travel practices not only benefit the environment, but also contribute to the long-term economic well-being of these areas. In addition to our ongoing efforts, we are constantly seeking ways to improve and do more.

Throughout our expedition season, we partner with a number of organizations to support initiatives such as hosting Young Explorers, facilitating scientific research in remote locations, and donating items for charitable on-board auctions. We encourage you to keep an eye out for these partnerships during your Adventure Canada expedition. Together, we can make a positive impact and help create a better future for all.

RESEARCHER-IN-RESIDENCE

Adventure Canada hopes to engage, inspire, and educate by connecting people to the land and to each other through field science and innovative travel experiences. We believe that spreading knowledge and understanding of the areas to which we travel will enable better protection of these areas and inspire the public to take an actionable interest in them. We offer the researcher-in-residence an opportunity to observe the environments and communities visited by the ship and share their research interests with individuals aboard. On this voyage, our resident researcher will be:

Thomas Stone – Thomas studies at the University of Oxford and has a passion for conservation and interests in population ecology and marine mammals. Thomas' focus is on marine mammal surveying and global whale tracking through Happywhale.

AUCTION BENEFICIARIES

BirdLife International – BirdLife International is a global partnership of conservation organizations (NGOs) that strives to conserve birds, their habitats and global biodiversity, working with people towards sustainability in the use of natural resources. Together, BirdLife International is comprised of over one hundred national partners worldwide – one per country or territory – and growing.

We are driven by our belief that local people, working for nature in their own places but connected nationally and internationally through our global partnership, are the key to sustaining all life on this planet. This unique local-to-global approach delivers high impact and long-term conservation for the benefit of nature and people.

Adventure Canada and BirdLife International are proud to partner on select travel programs. Through our work together we build awareness and capacity through the Graeme Gibson Fellowship and other BirdLife International programs.
