For more than thirty-five years, Adventure Canada has been taking people to some of the most inspiring destinations on the planet. And we've been doing it in the company of some of the most inspiring folks around!

By travelling with local experts, cultural educators, learned scholars, scientists, artists, and expedition specialists, we hope to help our guests open their minds and hearts. We know we've succeeded when our guests become ambassadors for the places we visit, the cultures we get to know, the animals, and the environment we appreciate along the way—and the planet itself!

We build our expedition team around the knowledge and experience of a team of cultural educators, many of whom call the regions to which we travel their homes. With their guidance, we gain locals' perspective while giving back to communities.

Now in our second generation of management, we carry on the tradition of excellence and community fostered by our founders. We believe in the transformative power of nature and fostering a sense of fun and wonder. We value meaningful cultural exchange. Our team thrives on having a hands-on involvement and our owners can be found on almost every expedition.

Eight Amazing Experiences on Baffin Island and Greenland: Circling the Midnight Sun

Vibrant Inuit culture, incredible ice, rich history, and amazing wildlife will send shivers of excitement down your spine on this spectacular expedition. Here are our top eight picks of amazing experiences that will make this journey truly unforgettable.

1 Travel through Inuit Nunangat alongside Inuit

Experience the extraordinary privilege of journeying through Inuit Nunangat—the ice, water, and lands of Inuit. As honoured guests in the Inuit homeland, take the unique opportunity to learn from Inuit and forge a meaningful connection with both the people and places we visit. Try your hand at Inuit games, sample country food, visit a local hamlet, or simply walk the tundra with Inuit expedition team members. They'll share their homeland with heartfelt passion.

Educator,

“Pang” hat.

2 Experience Panniqtuuq’s rich artistic traditions

Just a hop, skip, and jump below the Arctic Circle lies the charming community of Panniqtuuq (Pangnirtung)—or “Pang” as locals call it. Prepare to be mesmerized as you immerse yourself in Inuit art and the rich artistic traditions that define this remarkable place. You’ll see why this hamlet has gained international acclaim as you wander through the Uqqurmiut Inuit Arts Centre. Step inside the print and weave shop where talented Inuit artists create beautifully woven tapestries and prints. Even get the opportunity to check out the world-famous “Pang” hats—colourfully patterned crocheted toques!

3 Spend two fun-filled days exploring the Cumberland Peninsula

Every moment spent exploring this stunning region will become your absolute favourite. Your adventurous spirit will thrive as we seize every opportunity to hike across the vast tundra and cruise the icy waters in a Zodiac. Intrigue awaits as we venture into Cumberland Sound, whose profuse wildlife sustained Inuit and their predecessors for thousands of years. This location was even considered a potential missing link in the early search for the Northwest Passage. Sail through the marine-rich waterway learning from our expert expedition team and gaining a deeper understanding of its past and present significance. Be sure to hold onto your hats (or rather, your binoculars!) as we explore—you never know what incredible wildlife we might encounter along the way!

4 Take it easy with local wildlife

Marvel at the diversity of wildlife all around these beautiful vistas. On the cliffs, murre and guillemots nest by the countless thousands. On the land, foxes watch us from the outcrops, muskoxen trample the tundra, and walrus patrol the bays. And on the drifting ice floes? Keep your binoculars ready for seals and the white bears that love to feed on them.

5 See icebergs bigger than you ever imagined—all while sipping a latte

Ilulissat means “icebergs.” The name says it all. Beside this renowned town of 4,700 people is Sermeq Kujalleq (Jakobshavn Glacier), the busiest glacier in the Northern Hemisphere, spewing 20 billion tonnes of ice per year into the local waterfront. Appropriately, this is a UNESCO World Heritage Site, not to mention Greenland’s top tourist attraction. Tour amongst the skyscraping bergs (often accompanied by humpback whales!), peruse the local museums and shops (sealskin chic!), and dine on distinctive Greenlandic fare (muskox burgers anyone?).

6 Explore the west Greenland coast, where the Arctic is sublime

Everything about Greenland’s geology owes its existence to ice. Inland is the greatest ice sheet in the Northern Hemisphere. Along the coast are a labyrinth of fjords, the product of eons of grinding ice—much of it still sparkling in the cirques. And at sea? If you’re lucky you might spot bobbing bergs, sailing to who-knows-where. Explore this glittering land and seascape by ship, Zodiac, or on shore. Make sure your camera has a spare memory card, because you might just fill it up!

7 Sail historic Davis Strait, a crossroads of whalers, Inuit, and explorers

For at least a millennium, this shivering sea has united Europe and Arctic North America. Inuit travel here, as did Vikings, Scottish whalers, explorers like Franklin and Amundsen, and more. On the outer decks, keep your eyes peeled for pilot and sperm whales, seabirds, and fantastical icebergs.

8 Cross the Arctic Circle in west Greenland's greatest fjord

Sailing up Kangerlussuaq Fjord (Søndre Strømfjord) is a true polar pleasure. A whopping 190 kilometres long but just two clicks wide, this remarkable seaway is flanked all along by frosted peaks and glaciers. En route you'll cross the Arctic Circle—an achievement few travellers can claim. And at the end of it all is humble-but-historic Kangerlussuaq. Once a United States air base key in fighting the Nazis, it's now Greenland's main international airport. Look for muskoxen, scruffy trees, and several fine souvenir shops around the airport terminal.

Ten Fascinating Points of Interest on Into the Northwest Passage

Each Adventure Canada expedition holds its own unique highlights. On Into the Northwest Passage, the poignant historical sites, spectacular scenery, beautiful Inuit communities, and incredible ice leave us in awe. These are our picks for Into the Northwest Passage's top ten highlights.

©Scott Forsyth

1 Sneak through haunting straits, following the sea lanes of history

Along the south end of King William Island is the crux of the Northwest Passage, where the straits are shallow but the past runs deep. Squeak past bleak headlands and islands where Franklin's men fell in their tracks. Most eerie of all, sail near the graveyards of the Arctic's most infamous shipwrecks, the Erebus and Terror. Did they drift here? Were they sailed? Are there photographs, journals, or bodies aboard? Learn about the ongoing investigations and marvel at the mysteries of that most tragic expedition.

©Jen Derbach

2 Visit Mittimatalik, one of Nunavut's most scenically situated communities

The biggest town in the High Arctic of Canada is also—we would argue—one of its most beautifully located. Mittimatalik, also known as Pond Inlet, nestles along whale-laden Eclipse Sound, peering toward the peaks and glaciers of Sirmilik National Park. For its 1,500 or so Inuit residents, this community is a cultural haven. Tour around town with warm local guides, hear (and likely learn a bit of) the Inuktitut language, witness a cultural extravaganza of Inuit sports and song, and purchase unique local carvings and craftworks.

©Dennis Minty

©Dennis Minty

3 Pay homage to adventurers past at historic, haunting Beechey Island

With shattered shale plains, eroding bluffs, and little greenery, Beechey Island appears utterly sterile. But to history buffs, it's hallowed ground. Here, three mariners with the lost Franklin expedition were interred. For 170 years—until the recent discovery of Franklin's ships—their graves were the prime monument to that tragic, mysterious voyage. Pay respects to the trio, explore artifacts left by Franklin searchers, and marvel at what it was like for Englishmen to live and die here, so distant from the only world they knew.

4 See icebergs bigger than you ever imagined—all while sipping a latte

Ilulissat means "icebergs." The name says it all. Beside this renowned town of 4,700 people is Sermeq Kujalleq (Jakobshavn Glacier), the busiest glacier in the Northern Hemisphere, spewing 20 billion tonnes of ice per year into the local waterfront. Appropriately, this is a UNESCO World Heritage Site, not to mention Greenland's top tourist attraction. Tour amongst the skyscraping bergs by Zodiac (often accompanied by humpback whales!), peruse the local museums and shops (sealskin chic!), and dine on distinctive Greenlandic fare (muskox burgers anyone?).

©Michelle Valberg

©Dennis Minty

5 Have a whale of a time in Tallurutiup Imanga, a protected Inuit waterway

Overlaying much of the Northwest Passage is Tallurutiup Imanga, a landmark marine sanctuary established through a pact between Inuit and Canada. Sail and Zodiac through this natural and cultural seascape, witnessing ecological wonders. Here, the greatest Arctic whales, bus-sized bowheads, skim for plankton—while belugas and narwhal gobble cod in the fjords. On sea cliffs, murrens and guillemots nest by the countless thousands. And on the drifting ice floes? Seals and the white bears that love to feed on them.

6 Experience the west Greenland coast, where the Arctic is sublime

Sailing down the legendary Kangerlussuaq Fjord (Søndre Strømfjord) is a true polar pleasure. A whopping 190 kilometres long but just two kilometres wide, this intimate seaway is flanked by countless frosted peaks and glaciers. The rest of Greenland’s west coast is no less majestic—think icebergs, jagged isles, and misty summits. Explore this glittering land and seascape by ship, Zodiac, or on shore. Keep your eyes peeled for whales and make sure your camera has a spare memory card, because you might just fill it up!

7 Stay cool while exploring the face of some of Canada’s greatest glaciers

Devon Island, the world’s largest uninhabited island, makes up for what it lacks in people with its ample ice—4,000 gigatons of the stuff, forming an ice cap almost a kilometre deep and sending glaciers churning down to the sea. By ship and Zodiac, explore the faces of these tidewater glaciers, while watching for the calving of house-sized icebergs, weaving amongst iridescent blue “bergy bits,” and marvelling at the diversity of wildlife—including greedily feeding seabirds and, often, polar bears, beluga, and narwhal.

©Scott Forsyth

©Dennis Minty

8 Tour a town steeped in the legacy of the Amundsen and Franklin voyages

Snug in what Roald Amundsen proclaimed “the finest little harbour in the world” is historic Uqsuqtuuq, also known as Gjoa Haven, on King William Island. En route through the Northwest Passage, Amundsen spent two light-hearted winters here, learning how to drive dogsleds, make igloos, and wear fur from Inuit who chose to stay here with him. At the excellent cultural centre you, too, can learn from the locals—not just about Amundsen’s journey but also Franklin’s, including the key role Inuit played in finding, and now guarding, the long-lost ships Erebus and Terror.

9 Experience a polar hardship posting

A century ago the Arctic was disputed territory. Mounties and Inuit special constables were thus sent to Devon Island to fly Canada’s flag, make sovereignty patrols, and staff a remote station at Dundas Harbour. After the Mounties left, this was the site of the first Arctic relocation, when Inuit families were infamously moved to bolster Canada’s claims to the Far North. Tour the station’s eerie structures, learn about the hardships here, and take in the tundra’s local wildlife, which often includes foxes, muskoxen, and walrus.

10 Sail historic Davis Strait, a crossroads of whalers, Inuit, and explorers

For at least a millennium, this shivering sea has united Europe and Arctic North America. Inuit travel here, as did Vikings, Scottish whalers, explorers like Franklin and Amundsen, and more. On the outer decks, keep your eyes peeled for pilot and sperm whales, sea birds, and fantastical icebergs.

Ten Incredible Experiences on Out of the Northwest Passage

Each Adventure Canada expedition holds its own unique highlights. On Out of the Northwest Passage, we're amazed by welcoming Inuit communities, far northerly vistas, fascinating history, and aurora viewing opportunities. Join us for this trip of a lifetime and tick these experiences off your bucket list.

1 Achieve your own “farthest north” with a sail up surreal Smith Sound

The waters dividing Ellesmere Island from Greenland were once known as “the American route to the pole.” Explorers like Kane, Hall, Greeley, and Peary came this way—and often came to grief. Follow their tracks, using the benefit of charts and sonar, sailing as far up Smith Sound as possible, into a realm ringed by ice floes, ominous headlands, and ghostly ruins like Camp Clay and Fort Conger. Up here, the animals are all white, the shadows are all long, the silence practically roars, and nearly everyone else on Earth is behind you—way down south.

2 Sneak through haunting straits, following the sea lanes of history

Along the south end of King William Island is the crux of the Northwest Passage, where the straits are shallow but the past runs deep. Squeak past bleak headlands and islands where Franklin's men fell in their tracks. Most eerie of all, sail near the graveyards of the Arctic's most infamous shipwrecks, the Erebus and Terror. And on the drifting ice floes? Seals and the white bears that love to feed on them.

6 Tour the town at the top of the world, on dazzling Ellesmere Island

Welcome to Ausuittuq, “the place that never thaws.” Also known as Grise Fiord, this is Canada’s northernmost community, where 129 hardy locals thrive amidst glittering glaciers and peaks. This place wasn’t always so pleasant: the first Inuit residents, the Arctic Exiles, were brought here in the 1950s to bolster Canada’s sovereignty and faced untold hardships. Witness the haunting monument erected in their memory, hear tales about the intrepid local culture, and take in sweeping views while trekking in the frosty foothills.

7 Experience the west Greenland coast, where the Arctic is sublime

Greenland’s west coast is majestic—think icebergs, jagged isles, and misty summits. Explore this glittering land and seascape by ship, Zodiac, or on shore.
