In 2012, Walter Dean Myers was appointed a national ambassador for youth literature. The National Ambassador sponsored by the Library of Congress and the Children's Book Council was founded in 2008 and named Jon Scieszka for a two-year term. The choice of candidates is based on the contribution of youth to literature and the relevance to children. Walter started writing from a young age. "I am an excellent student, but the wall of conversation is causing problems, one of my teachers thinks I can not speak a certain word. I think that his family has tuition fee of the university. Noticing that we can not afford to pay, Walter entered the army on the birthday of 17. When he got off work, he was engaged in various kinds of work and writing at night. I wrote it for that magazine," Walter said.
