

character motivation in macbeth

Shakespeare not only shows the behavior of characters but also helps you understand the motivation for characters to act in their own way. Tragedy, Macbeth is a drama, there are many terrible events, and behind it there is a strong motivation. MacDuff and Macbeth are the two roles of Macbeth and their behavior fulfilled excellent motivation. At the beginning of the play, Macbeth is a heroic personality, "From the corridor to the seal, people will get out of it." He has great potential as a warrior, he loves and respects his country very much. One day, he came back from the battle and was welcomed by three witches who had wonderful and terrible power to predict the future. When they greet him, they will see him in a predictive way. Read more or pay for essay

The title character Macbeth is the most despicable character in Shakespeare's plays. His wife, Mrs Macbeth, was initially the main motive for his destructive behavior, but the whole script did not. When Macbeth planned to kill Banco and McDuff's family, he and his wife acted separately. Mrs Macbeth proved that he was conscience and not as bad as her previous behavior guessed. Macbeth is a wonderful drama, even a malignant and evil character.

Macbeth 's protagonist is Macbeth himself and his wife Macbeth. In this play, a male character like Macbeth has a feminine character, but a female character like Mrs Macbeth has a more masculine character. As Shakespeare wrote the script Macbeth, Macbeth was depicted as a weaker personality compared to Mrs. Macbeth, but he tried to change the reputation of men and women against power and role. Even if the people of the Renaissance do not accept it or continue to change, equality between men and women is a major focus in today's society, and each individual's view of the role changes dramatically compared to the Renaissance.