Step Out 6.2 Four Corners

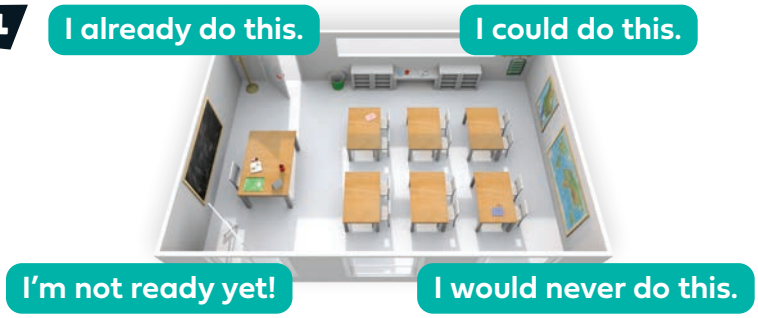

Play Four Corners with your class.

Do this activity after Task 4, page 95.

1 Get ready.

- Each corner of your classroom is a statement: "I already do this," "I could do this," "I'm not ready yet!" and "I would never do this."

MODEL

2 Play the game!

- Look at the task on the first slide.
- Decide if you already do this task, if you could do this task, if you're not ready yet to do this task or if you would never do this task. Go to the corner that applies to you.
- Give an example to the classmates in that corner.

I already do this task because . . .

I think I could do this task because . . .

I would like to do this task, but I'm not ready yet because . . .

I would never do this task because . . .

3 Go to the next slide and play again.

- Change corners if you need to and give an example for each task.

Step It Up!

Lead your class in a game of Four Corners!

- With a classmate or small group, think of five different tasks to add to the game. Use your own ideas or Unit 6 of your workbook for help.
- Take turns calling out the tasks to your class.
