It's Catch's first bus ride. He wants to meet his friends at the park.

"Your biscuit and your map are in your backpack," says Mom.

"Woof!" says Catch.

Mom attaches Catch's backpack.
She puts his bus pass on his collar.

"Have a good time!" says Mom.

The doors of the bus open.

Catch gets on the bus. He wags his tail.

The bus driver looks at Catch's bus pass.

"I want to go to the park," says Catch.

"The park is the last stop," says the bus driver. "We ride all around town. Please sit down and enjoy the ride."

The bus starts to move.

Catch looks at his map. He looks outside.
He looks at his map again.

Catch is lost!

He sees many children.

“Is this the park?” Catch asks the bus driver.

“No, this isn’t the park,” says the bus driver.

“This is the school. There are classrooms.
Teachers help students to learn different subjects like English, math and French.”

The bus starts to move.

Catch looks at his map. He looks outside.
He looks at his map again.

Catch is lost!

Catch sees many flowers.

“Is this the park?” asks Catch.

“No, this is not the park” says the bus driver. “This is a garden. There are plants. There are flowers, fruits and vegetables.”

The bus starts to move.

Catch sees many people with shopping carts.

“Is this the park?” asks Catch.

“No, this is not the park,” says the bus driver.

“This is the supermarket. People buy food here to eat at their house. They buy their groceries.”

The bus starts to move.

Catch sees many people on bicycles.

“Is this the park?” asks Catch.

He also sees his friends!

This time, Catch is not lost.

“THIS is the park!” says Catch.

“Yes,” laughs the bus driver.

here. This is your stop!”
