

Judge Orders Boys Playing With BB Guns To Write Essays On Tamir Rice

Two juveniles in cleveland were arrested after they were playing with their bb guns in public. The case is similar to what happened to tamir rice. Thankfully nothing terrible happened to the boys. They both pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor disorderly conduct charge. how about the cops actions? If you are playing around with a toy gun, police can murder you, so your actions can murder you. In the case of tamia rice the cops got away. In this case, i have mixed feelings. I think it's possible the judge's heart is in the right place. i agree. i think she is trying to say how these two different cases were treated, so i understand that and i am glad they just have to write essay fast. I'm super glad they weren't shot. What a weird state of ohio is. Why is it a misdemeanor to have a bb gun, but it is an open carry state? the laws regarding open carry our very messed up in ohio. I just want to show you the tamir rice video again, to remind you what exactly happened and how quickly he was shot and killed. he is on the top right-hand corner of the video. he's playing in a park, and now cops are going to come any second now. there they are. they ask him a question, right? Nope. They already shot him. That is unbelievable. the reason why the story about the judge's ruling stood out is not because i think the judge's heart is in the wrong place, but because it puts the onus on the children with eight toy gun ñ a bb gun i suppose can cause damage, but it is not lethal. It's like shifting the blame on to these kids instead of focusing on the real issue, that the cop in the tamia rice case didn't do a proper investigation, got out of his car and shot a 12-year-old within two seconds. It should've been a teachable moment, but it's not. More than anything, it tells people you have to tiptoe around everything, walk on at shells, because these cops are so unruly you might get shot and killed as a result of playing with a bb gun. that is true across the country. When i was a kid, i loved toy guns. I had cowboy guns, guns from star trek, now i will let my son buy a gun ñ a toy gun. it would be a terrible idea. i'm not blaming the judge, and she wasn't the judge in the tamir rice case, but isn't there something wrong in our society if we think ñ if my kids have a toy gun cops might shoot them dead? That can't be the fault of the kids, it has to be the fault of the parents. How is this not a problem when i grew up decades ago? Now in america, cops are so out of control, we live in such a police state, you have to watch out for your kids, not from the bad guys who the cops will protect them from, but from the cops. i know. It's amazing. Remember, we pay cops. Our taxpayer money funds the salaries of police officers. They are not making us feel safe right now, it is the antithesis of making us feel safe. is it a really bad apples? Then how come they got away with it? So, if you're a cop out there, and you are not comfortable with us talking this way is what we are doing is showing you reality, a mirror. If you don't like it, change it. You are in a better position to change police culture and training so we are not afraid of cops. Don't complain about us delivering the news. You should complain about the culture that is prevalent and fix it. and finally ohio's open carry law. It is incredible. In the case of juveniles, they are not old enough to have a legal weapon. If those boys were openly carrying these guns at the park, they weren't doing anything wrong. But what would happen if they were openly carrying bb guns? This is according to the law in cleveland. What? You are not allowed to have brass knuckles, but you can have lethal weapons in a public place? That's incredible to me. ohio is unbelievable. You might not be able to have a bb gun, but you can have an assault rifle and murder dozens of people. That is totally fine. A bb gun is too dangerous, but a real gun is not. We are about to go to cleveland, for the republican convention. Cleveland ohio is an open carry state, so cops have said you can bring guns to the protest. But you are not allowed to bring water guns. This is the insane world we live in.
